By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A telegram from R. L. Doolittle of El Paso to Senator Fall declaring that "Mexico was murdered like a dog" was read in the Senate today at the request of Senator Fall.

"I am almost certain Villa did it in person," said the telegram from Doolittle. "The evidence that Doolittle has gathered from his own eyes and ears, and the evidence that he has gathered from the eyes and ears of others, is that Villa is the man who has murdered the United States and the United States people."

Senator Fall, in his speech, declared that the United States had been "murdered" by the Mexican revolutionaries, and that the United States people had been "murdered" by the Mexican revolutionaries.

The Evening Standard says: "The execution of Benton emphasizes the fact that some kind of international commission will be necessary to prevent Mexico from wallowing in this state of corruption and cruelty."

The Globe, after asking what is going to happen in case investigation proves the guilt of Villa, says: "The United States has not only the responsibility involved in its assertion of the Monroe doctrine, but the responsibility of having supplied Villa and the rebels with arms, thereby promoting the lawlessness which has had much grievous results for British lives and interests. President Wilson has done too far to shrink from going further."

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Felix Diaz, who brought about the downfall of Madero but later had to flee from Mexico for his life, arrived here today from Havana. He declared he had no intention of giving aid to either Carranza and Villa and declined to discuss what plans, if any, he had for regaining the power he once had in Mexico.

FRICK PICTURES ENTERTAIN
LARGE CROWD AT SOISSON*Safety, Welfare and Sanitation Exhibition Proves Interesting to Everyone.

A packed house filled the Soisson Theatre last evening when the safety, welfare and sanitation exhibition of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, in moving pictures and lantern slides was given. Professional and business men were well represented, together with their families, as guests of the exhibition, which was given in the lecture hall of the Soisson Theatre. The exhibit was in charge of W. H. Glasgow, assistant to General Superintendent W. H. Clineberger, while Austin King, chief mine inspector of the company, described the various views.

Moving pictures of work within the mine proved a real treat. They were not only unimpaired, but were actually executed, and those who were never in a coal mine were given an opportunity to see how the work is carried on.

The lantern slides showed the right and the wrong way of doing things, while views were given of prize gardens in the region, and of the sanitation and welfare work that has been accomplished.

The Coalbrook team was shown in action during the last act, and at Continental No. 1 last fall.

SCOTTSDALE, Feb. 21.—Sebastian Duncan, a rather small, stout Italian, with a pleasant countenance, youthful and ingenuous, sat in the back room of William Ferguson's undertaking establishment and told the coroner's jury and a number of spectators on Friday afternoon of the tragic events of Thursday afternoon in the little store of the Dancaus on Bridge street.

Within four feet of Duncan, and immediately in front of the six jurors, was the body of John Riggio, aged 29, with a wound under his left eye and in front of his left ear. Deputy Coroner W. J. Potter of Greenburg, twirled a dinky looking .32-calibre revolver from which five shots had been fired. Two of the bullets had been removed from the brain of Riggio.

From the story told, Riggio had been five steps through the store and across a bridge street from his barber shop to the little store that day, and the fifth and last trip had ended in his sudden and violent death.

The protecting arm of the law shielded the willing Duncan from telling all he could of the fatal visit, which was the third time he was in the store that afternoon. Mrs. Duncan, wife of Duncan's brother, Sam, told of the five visits. The prisoner told how for weeks the family had lived in fear of the Black Handers, whose letters threatening them had come to their door.

Riggio, the barber, Duncan said, he did not know, except from his coming across the street and visiting the store. Duncan said that he had been in the store at 141 Bridge street for between seven and eight years.

Through Riggio's third visit to the store, he said, he was in the store on Wednesday night and did not go up until about 11 o'clock on Thursday, and then a man came from Alvarado with $100 which he wanted to give to Duncan to take to his brother, Riggio, who was in the store.

"What did you do with the two letters I sent you?" asked Riggio. "What letter?" I said, continued Duncan, and Riggio said "The two letters you sent me the police?" There was a slight pause.

"You've got to give me the money right away," said Riggio, and I told him that I had no money. Then he grabbed me by the throat," said the witness, illustrating how he had been held down. The witness stopped his testimony at this point.

Duncan further testified that on November 15 they had received the first of the Black Hand letters demanding money, and that on the 20th of that month they must go to Greensburg and leave $500 under the bridge where the letters were sent.

He said, came soon after and said that the money had not been brought, and if it was not, then the whole family would be blown up. Duncan said that the letters had been turned over to the police, and Chief of Police Frank McCadden, sitting nearby, nodded his head.

Mrs. Rose Duncan, wife of Samuel Duncan, the owner of the store, said she was upstairs in the house about 1 o'clock and had her baby in her arms, heard shots in the lower part of the store, and then she saw the man who took the baby upstairs. She found the man on the machine and reloaded it. All the chambers were empty and she said she afterwards found five shells on the floor. She said that they had been having guns around expecting trouble ever since the letters came.

Tony Duncan, a nephew, seems to have been an eye witness. He was in the cellar, and hearing someone upstairs reached the door just as Riggio was speaking of the letters, and heard him say "You've got to give me the money. You've got to give me the money. You've got to give me the money."

Riggio was known here as Samuel, but he said his name Riggio appeared on his passport.

The formal charge of murder was necessary and Chief McCadden made the information before Justice Stephen R. Rutherford and Duncan was taken to jail. If, under the circumstances, the case is indictable Duncan will have plenty of friends to go on his bond.

After writing to six other postmasters in regard to observing holiday hours on Monday, McIntosh, a Washington Postmaster, has decided to observe the day, but not to close up so tightly as other postmasters, which are more generally observed.

McIntosh broke a precedent by having the office open on Monday. He held somewhat the same views about Washington's birthday, but when he found that other postmasters were closing, he decided to follow suit.

The office will be open in full until 10 o'clock in the morning, except the money order department which will be closed all day. Delivery and collection of mails will be made by express in the morning only. The office will be open in the evening from 6 o'clock and there will be a collection of mails in the business section at 6 o'clock in the evening. The letter collection will be for the benefit of those who may have dropped letters in the morning. It was a holiday and with the office closed, a collection would be made before night.

CITY BEAUTIFUL

Man to Come Here on March 30.

First Aid to the Unlabeled Program.

As a test of public spirit in Connellsville, the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon decided to enter into a contract with the National Society for Broader Education of Carlisle for the services of its field manager, Herbert Hemmingsway, in a city-beautiful campaign, beginning March 30 and continuing for four weeks.

After meeting with Guy Carleton Lee, another representative of the society, who came here yesterday to look over the town, the board of directors talked the matter over at a special meeting later in the day. The outcome was the decision to have Mr. Hemmingsway here for four weeks. This will cost $125 a week, or $500 for the month's campaign. The expense will be met by the chamber's treasury.

There were various opinions as to the advisability of undertaking such a campaign. It was generally conceded that it would be a good thing, but some of the members expressed doubt as to whether it could be carried out successfully. That it was a matter of public spirit was the consensus of opinion, and it was undertaken with the understanding that if Connellsville people will not allow themselves to be educated to the point of beautifying their property, there is no use for the Chamber of Commerce to continue its efforts along other lines.

Mr. Lee declared that there is great need for improvement. He made a great many criticisms, but he said the city was not so bad as he had heard. He said that the people would take hold of the campaign.

It is the plan of Mr. Hemmingsway to begin in the schools, to get the women interested in their homes and gardens, to form an association for beautifying the city, and to get the people to plant trees and shrubs, and to plant the seed of civic pride, which he says will take root and grow wonderfully.

There is no telling, I'm sure," he said, "whether the people will be usually guided by the will of the people. As it now stands, he plans to get on congressional candidates in June and possibly in Pennsylvania. No doubt he will be in the thick of the fight for Progressive principles."

OLD 1109 SIMPLY WON'T
STAY OUT OF THE PAPERS*Even When the Ubiquitous Reporter
Gives it a Rest, the Railroad
Press Agent Won't.

When news is scarce of the industrial reporter is tired, that young man usually turns his brain factory loose on such interesting topics as damming the Yough, painting the handstand or locating a playground. If these fail to pass the pessimist who backs his copy before the linotypers get it, the busy beater of typewriters grinds out something about locomotive No. 1109, which shifts passenger cars at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station.

The reporter's job is gone now. A railroad press agent has grabbed his idea and proposed to utilize it. Here is what came to the office:

"The 1109 has again been redecorated and is ready for service at the Baltimore & Ohio station. It came but recently from the Glenwood shops where it was repaired. When the engine came back to Connellsville it was ordered to the erecting shop here where the painter foreman, J. C. Hunter, personally supervised the repainting and stripping. The engine certainly looks a beauty now, and much credit is due Mr. Hunter for his excellent work."

"One must not forget that the attractiveness of the engine, as it appears day after day working back and forth in front of the station, and causing so much comment by the traveling public, is due to the untiring efforts of Fireman Charles Graft. There is hardly a day passes that he does not polish the brass and keep everything neat and clean. It has been a standing rule to keep engine 1109 in perfect condition for station use."

Can you beat that?

MOOREHEAD, Feb. 20.—The first of the new houses of Company B, Fourth Regiment, was completed on the 19th inst. The building is a two-story structure, 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, with a central hall and two long corridors on either side. The building is situated on a hill, and the view from the top of the hill is very fine. The building is now being occupied by the soldiers of the Fourth Regiment, and the officers are very pleased with the result. The building is a very fine example of modern military architecture, and it is a credit to the skill of the architects and the work of the soldiers.

No Pure Food and Drug Law Necessary for this Cough Syrup

We established our own Pure Food and Drug Law 40 years ago—and haven't changed it since. No one can claim credit for protecting you against because Goff's contains nothing harmful. It is made solely from herbs that were used for their medicinal value long before Pure Food and Drug Laws were ever thought of. Not a bit of such harmful drugs as Opium, Morphine and Chloroform are used in Goff's Cough Syrup. Goff's is a pure, harmless, old-fashioned cough mixture that relieves without "doping" the system.

Goff's Cough Syrup cures coughs because the herbs used in making it loosen and raise the phlegm and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane. For Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds in the chest and throat, threatened Pneumonia, Hoarseness, Influenza, Grippe, Croup, Whooping Cough and all inflammation and irritation of the respiratory organs, Goff's Cough Syrup brings safe and speedy relief.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very grateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—MRS. ORPHA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
